

E Partner Net

DEFINED SPACES

CREATING OFFICES THAT MAKE EMPLOYEES FEEL AT HOME IS THE ORDER OF THE DAY FOR WORKERS AT E PARTNER NET

THE CONCEPT WAS A SIMPLE ONE, says Jessica Devenish, vice president of E Partner Net, Inc. "We wanted our office to feel like home."

◆ The centerpiece for employees at E Partner Net is the kitchen / breakroom. "We put in a TV with satellite, vending machines and cupboards in the kitchen for everyone to keep their snacks and lunches in so they feel welcome to stay and enjoy the atmosphere during their lunch and break times," Devenish says.

◆ The easiness of the breakroom continues out the backdoor to a picnic area that overlooks East Bay Golf Course. ◆ In general, this Provo office space is warm and open, helping clients and employees alike to feel at home. "We think personal relationships are key to our business and we work hard to portray that, as most companies do," Devenish says.

PAUL CARNESECCA / Chairman of the Board

Carnesecca's personalized office centers around his love for horses and western decor. The highlight is the rustic barn porch he had built to fit his office, which he decorated with personal saddles, guns, spurs, cowboy boots, hats and belts. His office also includes old farm materials such as benches, milk cans and farm buckets that he used to have on the fruit farm his family was raised on in Mapleton. His office also includes two paintings done by his wife, Shanna.

CARL WATKINS / PRESIDENT OF CHECKNET

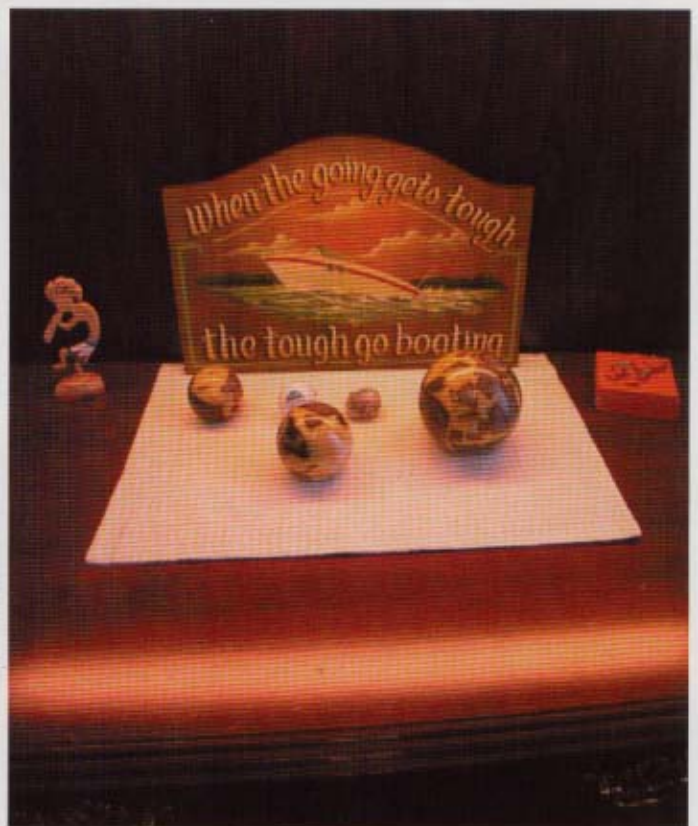

Watkins designed his office with a golf theme for two reasons. First, golfing is his favorite hobby, and second, his son is the golf pro at the Reserve at East Bay course, on which the E Partner Net offices are located.

JESSICA DEVENISH / VICE PRESIDENT OF EPN, INC.
 A photograph by Willie Holdman provided the inspiration for this "fall office."

CONFERENCE ROOM / SITTING AREA
 This E Partner Net space is designed to host client luncheons and personalized trainings. The conference room includes a full white board, projector, and projection screen for presentations and trainings for both staff and clients.

JOE D. HASTING, JR. / PRESIDENT OF EPN, INC.
 Hasting loves Lake Powell, boating and Southwest Decor, which he incorporated into his office.